But I can't do it. So I'm going to go through this, because I find this document absolutely incredible, in terms of what we have been talking about here. It says, Nebraska trust fund, Highway Trust Fund, Nebraska's investment in its future. Now, you could cross out "Highway Trust Fund" and put "education" there. You could put "early childhood education" there. You could put "public health" there. You could put a lot of things there. But I don't think that not building a road for...over the next two years, having it backed up, planned out a little differently, out of this big an amount of money, is the end of life as we know it in the state. Number one, safety. You cannot put a price tag on human lives. Well, we have. We have cut Health and Human Services programs. We have cut safety programs. We have cut the Fire Marshal. We have cut every aspect of our state agencies that deal with safety. And they've all had to absorb those cuts. And that 10 percent in this fund is not going to be any different than the 10 percent and the other money we've been cutting for two years, all of last year and this year, to our agencies that are responsible for safety in a variety of areas. Number two, statewide economic development. Jobs. Isn't that interesting? We're laying off teachers. We're laying off state employees. We're cutting people all across our agencies. And that doesn't matter. But if you don't fund a highway project, by gosh, that's a terrible thing. Three, trust. Let's keep our promise with the people of Nebraska. Well, we didn't keep our promise on the Health Care Trust Fund. We didn't keep our promise on the Environmental Trust Fund. We didn't keep our promise on the Education Trust Fund. I don't see a whole lot of difference. And those funds have taken a 10 percent cut. And in one case we just diverted the money. I don't...I say, you know, all bets are off here. We are in a crisis. Senator Maxwell just said, well, you know that temporary thing? That was kind of a lie last year. Because we thought we were just going to have temporary taxes to get us through to when times got better. Well, times didn't get better, and it's a different picture. We have to look to all the sectors. And there should be no sacred cows out there. Just because this group has a pretty powerful lobby, I don't think we should look at them any differently than we do education, health, and safety, and other areas of our budget. They should take the same kind of cuts, and the way that other
